

Spring 2022 Audit Courses

Thank you for your interest in Mercer University’s School of Theology! We allow community members to audit courses on a space-available basis. Auditors must be officially registered (online application & background check) with the University and there is a fee required for each course. The audit fee for courses at McAfee is $150 per course (plus an activities fee of $51). Please contact theologyadmissions@mercer.edu for more information.

Auditors are by nature listeners. As such, auditors are asked not to engage in course discussion or questions unless the professor has clearly communicated auditors are invited into full participation. Auditors are bound by the same policies as any student and are expected to adhere to the Community of Respect and any class covenant. Auditors do not receive course credit, nor do they submit assignments to be graded. The presence of auditors and the number allowed in each class are at the discretion of the professor.

Classes begin January 10, 2022.
